

Chinotto

Chinotto is a dwarf bitter orange, producing a small, slow growing, compact tree with dense, ornamental foliage. The tree flowers profusely in spring and produces good crops of small, round, orange-coloured fruit that look spectacular against the dark green foliage. Fruit hold on the tree for most of the year, making it a very attractive ornamental. Fruit can also be preserved and candied. Excellent container plant, also ideal for low hedges.